COLLABORATIVES AND COLLECTIVES

Black Memory Workers (2020 -)

- A collective of Black archivists and librarians committed to documenting the Black experience in the United States.

Feminist Data Studies Workshop (2019 -)

- The Feminist Data Studies Workshop is motivated by the need to create a space for coalition-building between feminist data scholars while also writing across disciplines and actively working toward dismantling inherited and harmful data regimes. The Workshop collaborates on solidifying feminist data studies as an emergent field of inquiry and practice and works collectively to interrogate the intersections of data, information, technology, culture, ethics, and people.

Archivists Against History Repeating Itself (2018 -)

- An informal collective of archivists and archival studies scholars seeking to enact structural change and to use traces of the past to interrupt cycles of oppression in the now. Collective members create and review activities; administer sessions in archives, classrooms and conferences that utilize the activities on the site; suggest readings and links; and help publicize the work of the collective.

Archives 4 Black Lives (2017 -)

- A4BL is a collective of black archivists and archival studies scholars dedicated to using archival theory and practice in the service of Black people living throughout the African diaspora.

Humanities, Arts, Science, and Technology Alliance and Collaboratory (HASTAC) (2014 -)

- HASTAC (Humanities, Arts, Science, and Technology Alliance and Collaboratory) is an interdisciplinary community of humanists, artists, social scientists, scientists, and technologists dedicated to changing the way we teach and learn. HASTAC's 16,000+ members from over 400+ affiliate organizations share ideas, news, tools, research, insights, pedagogy, methods, and projects--including Digital Humanities and other born-digital scholarship--and collaborate on various HASTAC initiatives.
